

MEDICAL DEVICES HELP COMBAT THE OPIOID CRISIS

The opioid crisis has an economic cost of over $500 billion annually

February 2018 News Update

A recent article in MassDevice overviews the opioid crisis in the U.S. Specific focus is on deaths, the economic costs, and that medical devices are an option to help combat the crisis. Each year over 30,000 opioid-related deaths occur, and prescription opioid misuse increases healthcare costs by $29.4 billion.

Provant[®] Therapy by RegenesiS Biomedical is highlighted as a safe, non-drug pain management device. It's a non-invasive, and patients typically self-treat at home. More than 15,000 patients have been prescribed Provant Therapy.
